Center for the Arts

The Center for the Arts complex includes the 2,000-seat Concert Hall, two experimental theaters, three dance studios, and music and fine arts studios. Five hundred Concert Hall tickets are available free to students for each performance. Website: gmu.edu/cfa.

Freedom Aquatic and Fitness Center

The 110,000 square foot complex is located on the Prince William campus as a result of a partnership between George Mason University, Prince William County and the City of Manassas. The center includes a 50-meter 10-lane competition pool, 7,000 square foot leisure pool with a two-story figure-eight waterslide, current channels and whirlpool, weight training room, fitness assessment labs, cardiovascular fitness areas, 2 basketball courts, elevated running/walking track, 3 racquetball courts and daycare facilities for infants and toddlers. Web site: gmu.edu/service/aquatics.

George W. Johnson Center

The Johnson Center has eight acres of floor space and houses a 25,000-volume book collection, media center, computer labs, bank, bookstore, convenience store, and food services. Specially outfitted spaces provide opportunities for film, dance, meetings, and private study. The center fosters university-wide learning by integrating students' curricular and extracurricular activities and by strengthening relationships between the university's communities. Web site: jcweb.gmu.edu.

Patriot Center

Patriot Center is a 10,000-seat sports and entertainment arena designed for basketball, concerts, and other sports and entertainment events. The center's arena hosts over 120 events annually and in 2007 attracted more than 480,000 guests from the affluent Washington, D.C., metropolitan area.
